

'This is a deeply informative and significant biographical study of a hugely important figure in the fight for race equality in Britain. Bunce and Field set their account of the life and work of campaigner and intellectual, Darcus Howe, within the larger context of anti-colonial struggles and anti-racist organizing in the Caribbean and in Britain. Essential reading for anyone with an interest in both black history and people's resistance movements.'

Priyamvada Gopal, Department of English, University of Cambridge, UK

'This riveting study illuminates the complexity of Darcus Howe's lifelong dedication to radical politics. Diligently researched and engagingly written, this remarkable book articulates and salutes a unique presence in modern British history; an activist whose stance against racial oppression remains undiminished, unapologetic and uncompromising, in a contemporary world too-often dominated by the shape-shifting of spin and short-term reactive thinking.'

Deirdre Osborne, Department of Theatre and Performance, Goldsmiths, University of London, UK

'This biography of Darcus Howe serves as an exposition of an unexplored though centrally significant dimension of contemporary British history.'

Farrukh Dhondy, author of C.L.R. James: Cricket, The Caribbean and World Revolution

Darcus Howe: A Political Biography examines the struggle for racial justice in Britain, through the lens of one of Britain's most prominent and controversial black journalists and campaigners.

Born in Trinidad during the dying days of British colonialism, Howe became an uncompromising champion of racial justice. The book examines how Howe's unique political outlook was inspired by the example of his mentor and great uncle C.L.R. James, and forged in the heat of the American civil rights movement, as well as Trinidad's Black Power Revolution.

The book sheds new light on Howe's leading role in the defining struggles in Britain against institutional racism in the police, the courts and the media. It focuses on his part as a defendant in the trial of the Mangrove Nine, the high point of Black Power in Britain; his role in conceiving and organizing the Black People's Day of Action, the largest ever demonstration by the black community in Britain; and his later work as one of Britain's most prominent journalists and political commentators.

Robin Bunce is Director of Studies for Politics at Homerton College and a Bye-Fellow in History at St Edmund's College, University of Cambridge, UK.

Paul Field worked as a journalist for many years during which he covered issues including policing and asylum, before qualifying as a lawyer practicing in the fields of discrimination and employment.

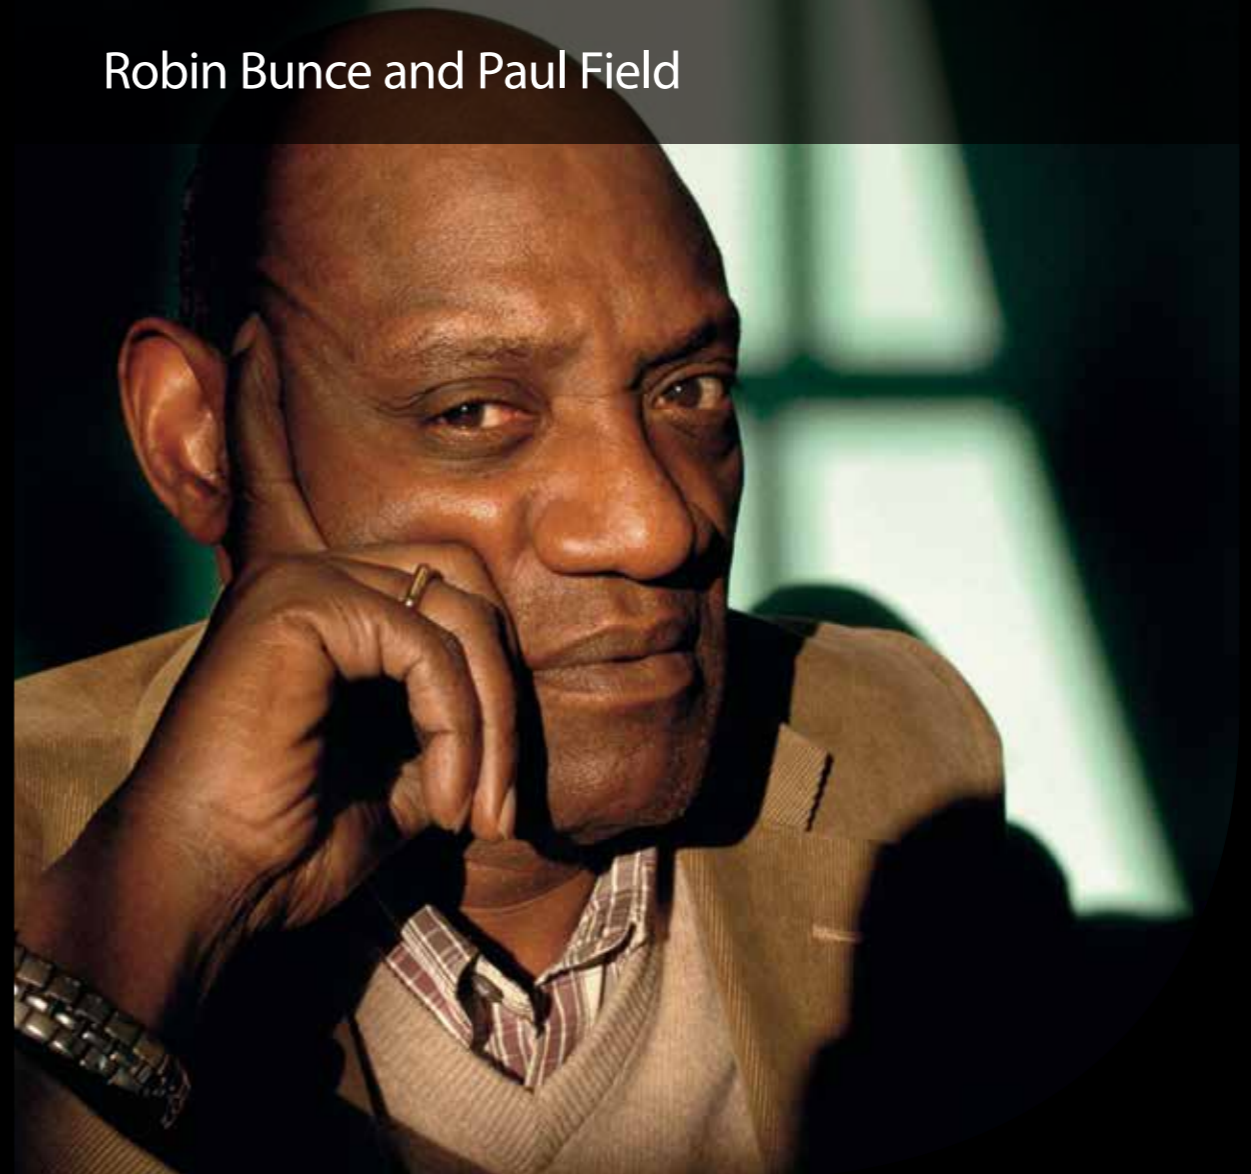

Darcus Howe
A Political Biography

Robin Bunce and Paul Field

Darcus Howe

A Political Biography

Robin Bunce and Paul Field

POLITICS

www.bloomsbury.com

Cover image: © Ross Parry Agency

ISBN 978-1-84966-495-0

9 781849 664950

Also available from Bloomsbury

B L O O M S B U R Y